The 1959 Lafamac

PUBLISHED BY THE SENIOR CLASS
FAYETTEVILLE SENIOR HIGH SCHOOL
FORT BRAGG ROAD
FAYETTEVILLE, NORTH CAROLINA

VOLUME XXXVIII

Three years ago in September of 1956, our class entered Fayetteville Senior High School as hesitant and self-conscious sophomores beginning the difficult road to Seniorhood. By September of the following year when we entered F. H. S. again, as juniors this time, we had gained more assurance and a sense of belonging. Finally, in September of 1958, we cagerly approached the portals of F. H. S. to begin our last year of high school as confident seniors. On becoming seniors we assumed certain responsibilties as well as privileges belonging to all seniors of the past and future.

During this, our last year, we have tried to live up to the standards set by classes before us and to make advances of our own. In these three years of work and play, we have been laying the foundations on which to build our future. Looking back, we are thankful to our teachers whose patience and diligence have been an inspiration to us all.

In this 1959 Lafamac are recorded some of the high lights of our high school career, and now, with mixed emotions we look ahead to graduation. For us this is the finale to our high school life and the prologue to our future.

With these thoughts and expectations, we present to you our 1959 Lafamac.

Principal's Message

Our modern age is characterized by super highways—super highways of traveling and living. Yet our travel on these super highways has not eliminated all tragedy and suffering, for there are those who fall asleep from the monotony of driving along the endless miles of concrete ribbon. Perhaps we need to sacrifice a little time and get off on one of the old winding roads occasionally, to challenge our powers of alert, skillful driving and to appreciate the beauties of the countryside.

The super highways of modern living may also be denying us the opportunity to build a strength of mind and body to carry us over the complete journey of life. The miracle media of communications today provide us with the means of talking to people over the entire world—but the important factor is not how we say but what we say. The content of what we say is accumulated only through the long labor of our minds.

We can leisurely ride along our super highways of health in a bottle of vitamins and tonics. Perhaps we need to seek out some mountainous road that will challenge the endurance of a healthy body built on the foundations of clean living and physical exercise. The physical stamina of the athlete is held in high esteem by the many because only these are willing to pay the price of long training hours.

So as you pass this way for these brief years, I advise you to travel a few difficult, winding roads of challenge. Life's journey will not be on a super highway all the way.

We're starting to sail on Life's challenging sea
And have learned much more than just A B C.
We pause to think how we've traveled so far
And find that our Captain has been our lodestar.
To him we're grateful for enriching our lives
With a ripe experience that in memory survives.
We want him to know that he has helped us in thought
And has our thanks for the much he has taught.
As our voyage continues, we shall surely see
Our Captain planned wisely for you and for me.

Therefore

to

Captain Joseph Caldwell Huske, U. S. N. Retired

We lovingly and gratefully

JOANNE SHOOK

(November 15, 1940—June 21, 1958)

Her hands were those of an artist; her mind, that of a scholar. She was quiet with diginity, humble in deed, and friendly to all. Her charming personality, sweetness of spirit, and love of wholesome fun, which endeared her to her companions, will live on and on. We will forever hold in loving memory, Joanne Shook—beautiful, lovable, good.

KEEPING FAITH

Old Father Time will wait for none;
His footsteps linger not.
The sands of time too soon obscure
The ones who waste their lot.

While I have youth and courage yet
To work for what is right,
It is for me to show the world
That hope can still shine bright.

And though misfortune should arrive
And fame will quite ignore me,
My life is still for me to live;
The future is before me.

Then come, Great God of All the World,
And help me to prepare
To keep the faith that all the Past
Entrusted to my care.

Class Song

WITH GOD BEFORE US
With God Be- Fore Us We Go ON To
Des- tin- y AND St- ill We Re- mem- BER
That Dear Place That Shaped our mind AND
Will With God Be- Fore Us We Go ON
Down The Road SO Wi- De
And Still we Hold The mem- o- ry of
When we Strived And Tried And With God's Help
We Will Try To Do OUR Ve- ry Best
To Show The World That We're

History of the Class of 1959

Three years ago, as we walked through the portals of this lovely school, it seemed like centuries before we would be ready to leave it. But, here we are. Remember that first year? We had fine leadership—our class officers were Joanne Shook as President; Dan Shingleton, Vice-President; Berma Jean Davenport, Secretary; and Jimmy Hall, Treasurer. We also had, in addition to our President, four representatives on the Student Council. They were Frank Averitt, Jimmy Fisher, Diane McKay, and Martha Ray. Weren't we proud of them? The Girls' Basketball team won the Southeastern Championship that year. Three of our classmates played to help win that title—Jean Matthis as a good forward and Anna Green and Jo Wray as spirited guards. They were really great. When the Junior-Senior prom came around, we had four girls and four boys as waitresses and waiters. They were Gayle Clark, Jane Clark, Martha Ray, Ginger Kelly, Frank Averitt, Jimmy Fisher, Gerald Fulghum, and Steve Goforth.

Our first year in high school sped by on wings. Before we knew it, it was awards night. We were by no means left out then. Sammy Thomasson won the D. A. R. Citizenship Award, and Diana Underwood won the American Legion Auxiliary Essay Award. Remember Lucy Tyson? She's not here any longer, but she won the Senior High School Scholastic Award. Wasn't she smart? As the school year ended, we looked forward to our event-filled junior year.

Yes, it really was event-filled. By the time the year was over, we had accomplished quite a bit. That year, our officers were Jimmy Fisher, President; Claude Godwin, Vice-President; Dottie Cochrane, Secretary; and Annetta Jones, Treasurer. Weren't we excited when members of our class were selected for the National Honor Society! The honored ones were Horace Inman, Anne Hutaff, Bill Lassiter, Diane McKay, Phil St. Amant, and Jimmy Fisher. Of course, we were represented on the Student Council, too. The representatives were Jane Clark, Ira Blaustein, Martha Ray, and Joanne Shook. As the year went by, we had a chance to do something on our own. With the able assistance of Miss Sessoms, of course, we put on the Miss F. H. S. Contest. It was a lot of hard work, but it surely was fun. Weren't we thrilled when our very own Anita Hatcher won it that year? We also had five of the six members of the court from our class. They were Judy Butler, Sue Taylor, Dot Daughtry, Elizabeth Grant, and Martha Ray. Our class is just filled with beauty queens! Not too long after the Miss F. H. S. Contest, we began plans for the Junior-Senior Prom. We were elated. It was our first, you know. We spent much time making the gym look pretty, and we certainly succeeded. Our theme was "An Affair to Remember." It was carried out beautifully in the decorations. We'll never forget that night, will we?

The seniors selected as their marshals that year Frank Averitt as Chief, and Joanne Shook, Bobby Faircloth, Jimmy Fisher, Jane Clark, Bill Lassiter, and Martha Ray as assistants. As we watched them lead the seniors down the aisle, we couldn't help feeling a trifle sad, knowing that soon we, too, would be leaving to go through wider doors and down longer paths. Still we looked forward to the day when we would reign supreme as seniors. We must not forget that Berma Jean Davenport and Diane McKay were elected to Girls' State that year.

As seniors, we do feel important, don't we? Our own Bill Lassiter is President of the Student Body. We have fine class officers, too. They are Horace Inman, President; Jerry Moore, Vice-President; Anita Hatcher, Secretary; and Carol Cole, Treasurer. We have many representatives on the National Honor Society this year. We certainly were proud of the senior boys that were honored with awards at the football banquet last fall, especially Bobby Faircloth who was honored as the "Most Valuable Player."

This year we have the best Lafamac of all. The editor of the Lafamac is Annetta Jones, and the business manager is Carroll Dudley. Of course, we must not forget the rest of the staff who worked equally as hard.

We will always remember our all-star production of "Two Blind Mice," and our wonderful Washington trip, as we think of the day when we will wear white gowns and caps while marching down the aisle to "Pomp and Circumstance." We look forward to that day with mixed emotions.

And yet, while looking forward to graduation, we look back to our wonderful times at F. H. S. and feel a surge of pride in the knowledge that we contributed to a grand and noble school. No matter what the future may hold, long will live with us our days in Fayetteville High School.

Last Will and Testament

State of North Carolina
County of Cumberland
City of Fayetteville

We, the graduating class of nineteen hundred and fifty-nine, leave with many pleasant memories and much knowledge gained through the past three years. As did our predecessors, we leave some of our dearest possessions to our followers.

I, Amelia Blake, leave the knack of getting my homework and going out on school nights to Peggy Phillips.

I, Peggy Godwin, leave my book, "Are You Fat?" to any junior who has a few extra pounds.

I, Diana Underwood, leave my flirtatious ways to Dawn Hamby.

I, Ann Kiser, leave my Southern drawl to anyone who has the time to use it.

I, Nancy Lee Inman, leave my favorite book, "Sans Famille," to those poor helpless French students.

I, Barbara Morrison, leave all my "A+" algebra papers to anyone who thinks he can do a better job.

We, Sue Taylor, Martha Ray, Anne Hutaff, Jane Clark, Betty Jean Ledbetter, Annetta Jones, and Dottie Cochran, leave our corner in French class . . . vacant and quiet.

I, Berma Jean Davenport, do hereby leave my fifth period position on the office staff to anyone with two good legs.

I, Phil St. Amant, leave Fayetteville High School to anyone who wants it.

I, Joan Woodard, leave my place in the lunch line to someone who thinks he can eat in five minutes.

I, Elizabeth Heatherly, leave my exciting personality, sparkling wit, bountiful talent, and diet book to my conceited sister Janice.

We, Frances Martin, Katherine Fasul, Patsy Garner, and Becky Sharpe, leave our long, leisurely lunch period to anyone who's not afraid of being late for class.

I, Linda Braswell, leave the presidency of Chi Phi Tri-Hi-y to someone who can handle it.

I, Wanda Harkey, leave my ability to pitch the "Star Spangled Banner" too high in assembly to Ruth Crowder.

I, Judy Butler, leave to my cousin Alph all my senior privileges that I never had a chance to use.

I, Jean Woodson, leave my broken typewriter to any poor soul who gets it next year.

I, Connie Billings, leave my ability to do French II to any junior who's brave enough to attempt it.

I, Rosalind Green, leave my knowledge of chemistry to those people who will be needing it next year.

I, Annetta Jones, leave all my worries about the Lafamac to next year's editor.

I, Carol Jordan, leave my writing ability to anycne who has Miss Fitzgerald next year.

I, Sammy Thomasson, leave my camera to next year's Lafamac staff.

I, Jane Liles, leave my little white cast to next year's wreck victim.

I, Deanna Lampros, leave my ability to blush at the right time to Mary Nan Ciampa.

I, Jo Wray, leave my four years of going steady to Dawn Carpenter.

I, Patty Brewer, leave my nickname "Witch" to next year's beauty queen.

I, Dan Shingleton, leave the roads to Wilson to anyone who can drive them.

We, Brenda Dale and Yvonne Lewis, leave a blue "chevy" to anybody who skips next year.

I, Jane Matthis, being of sound mind (I think), leave the fate of my misspelled name to Lacy Rose.

I, Sandra Wheeless, do leave my string of broken hearts to Steve Taylor, another heart breaker.

I, Judy Taylor, leave all Clinton, S. C., boys to Carolyn Faircloth.

I, Scotty Cook, leave my dry wit to Allen Lytch.

I, Annie Pearl Tew, leave my folding drinking cup to some thirsty junior.

I, Judy Hatch, leave my seat in English to my cousin Tommy in hope that he will have better luck than I.

I, Carl Aley, leave my ability to drive to Mack Wilburn.

I, Judy Lambert, leave the art of playing tic tac toe to Paul Holland.

I, Pat Carty, ask my sister Judy to take up where I left off.

I, Alyce Hubbard, leave my knowledge of English to the English teacher, Mrs. Godwin.

I, Ann Smith, leave my bottle of peroxide to any junior girl who likes to get a whistle.

I, Chuck Brown, leave anything but my brand-new Mercury!

I, Gerald Fulghum leave my art ability to the Art Department.

We, John Cox, Mayon Weeks and Jack Thompson, do hereby leave all our schemes, plans, and party flops to any three juniors that are capable of doing an honorable job.

I, Eleanor Goodwin, leave my little red "Willis" to my brother Buddy, hoping he can drive it better than I.

I, Steve Malkin, leave my knack of making such good pictures to any junior who owns a camera.

I, Juergen Hintz, leave my ability to say the wrong thing at the right time to someone who will do a great job.

I, Alice Faye Hooks, do hereby leave my cheerful disposition to Irene Rose.

I, Frankie Smith, leave my stick to next year's student conductor.

I, Jimmy Fisher, the last of the Fisher horde, do solemnly leave in the footsteps of my many brothers and sisters.

I, Patty Harvey, leave my petiteness to Toi McKethan.

I, Billy Woife, leave the Schumann Concerto to anyone who dares to play it.

I, Claude Godwin, leave my sand dune to those people who tend to get lost at the beach.

We, John Morgan and Jimmy Hall, leave our lovin' techniques to George Price and Jose Miranda.

I, Dennis Creech, do hereby leave my love for algebra with Mrs. Simmerman, hoping she will prove that "taking algebra sure is fun" to her coming students.

I, Billy Gore, do hereby leave my job of serving a few certain girls in the lunchroom to some big brave junior.

I, Elizabeth Grant, leave all the joys of being a senior to Howard Wrench, with the hope that he will enjoy them as much as I have.

I, Diane McKay, leave those glorious football games to Marcy MacRae. (There's only one catch . . . that long wait afterwards!)

I, Joyce Orphal, leave my red hair dye to Sarah Hair.

I, Frank Averitt, leave my football jersey to Bobby Gore.

I, Ann Black, leave my old senior play script to another Ft. Bragg person and the toe stops on my roller skates to anyone who knows how to use them.

I, Jane Farrell, leave my books in my locker since I can never find the right time to go get them.

We, Brooks Breeden and Jerry Fisher, leave our "laugh and live" class (French II class) to anyone who needs a break next year.

I, Lois Bowne, leave my patients to the tender care of Sandra Gibson and Barbara Shaughnessy.

I, Ann Blackburn, leave my sun tan oil and my place on the beach to anyone who wants to have a terrific time.

I, Richard Smith, being of sound mind (I think) just leave!

I, Ginger Kelly, leave my "talked about walk" to Libby Readling.

I, Pepi Spielberger, leave my seat in government to Sue Roberts.

I, Carroll Dudley, leave my position on the Lafamac staff to someone who doesn't know what he is getting into.

I, Randy Shackleford, leave my appreciation of foreign movies to Robert Miller.

I, Brooks Frazee, leave my crooked T square to someone who can't draw.

I, Colleen Smith, leave my playful bunsen burner to a lucky chemistry student.

I, Horace Inman, leave a little black Ford to anyone who can get it started.

We, Wayne Anderson, Bob Hart, Dan Shingleton, Sammy Thomasson, Bill Lucas, Allen Tyndall, John Cox, Tommy Moss, Connor Holland, Jimmy Fisher, Robert Hale, Jack Thompson, Carrol Dudley, leave our senior table in the lunchroom to anyone strong enough to keep it.

I, Tommy Millar, leave to Joe Non Conformist my cell at the city jail in hopes they feed him better than they fed me.

I, Vincent McBryde, leave all my used saxophone reeds to Mike Jones.

I, Bill Lucas, leave my six academic subjects to Kurt Von Kann, the only one who would be stupid enough to want them.

I, Jimmy Reavis, leave my place on the failure list to Mack Wilburn.

I, Kenna West, leave my long hours of work on the Lafamac to any junior who feels up to it.

I, Bobby Faircloth, leave my "harem" to Donald Parsons.

I, Nick Boosalis, leave that which I never had to anyone that might have it, and to Judith Zamecnik I leave Paradise Lost to find Paradise Regained.

I, Ira, Blaustein, leave my slave-driver's whip to the next Vice-president of the Key Club.

I, Dot Worrell, leave my parking space in the pecan grove to anyone who wants to get away fast.

I, Petty McQueen, take my stuffed animals and move to other quarters.

I, Joan Peoples, leave my ability to chatter constantly without saying anything to Sandy Tarlton, knowing that she is well qualified to carry on.

I, Roy Wood, having little, leave my dainty laugh, my cute dimples, and my pet, the Bulldog, to Ray Vallery.

I, David Bain, leave another year of French with Miss Oates to my little bitty buddy, Bill Shepherd.

And I, your testator, on this twelfth day of February in the year of our Lord, nineteen hundred and fifty-nine, do seal this, my legal work, and turn it over to our editor for publication.

PEACE

Where the dappled shadows dart
And the soothing stream doth start
And the emerald forest quiet
Beckons through the human riot,
There with Solitude I rest.
While the sweetest and the best of birds that in the treetops dwell
Lets his merry music swell,
Beauty holds me as a thrall
In nature's verdant fragrant hall.
There I dream and there I stay
Till dawn of night and eve of day;
Till spreading shadows, tide of night,
Are lying in the lunar light
And silver gilding every twig.
The moon beams bright and very big.
Then I leave for home to go
With dreaming step, so turtle slow,
And while the night ones cut the night
With lonely calls and noises light,
I lie tucked in slumber mist
Till morning hlushes—her cheek sun-kist.

SHOOTING STAR

Shooting star that skims the sky,
Won't you tell, tell me why,
Why my love has gone away
And ne'er again will come my way?
He told me that we ne'er would part,
That I alone would keep his heart;
But now he's taken hack his word.
He loves another, so I've heard.
Shooting star that skims the sky,
Won't you tell me, tell me why?

HAPPINESS

What is happiness? The greatest essential of happiness is to have something to do, something to love, and something to hope for. When searching for happiness, we cannot find it. It is the by-product of duty well done. All ranks and types of men who lose themselves in some honest worthwhile endeavor are the ones who achieve happiness.

If we will attempt to define happiness, difficulty will arise because happiness is as indefinable as health and as variable as speed, or any other element on which life is built. Happiness knows no standards and has no limits. If we want to know what it is, we must seek for it. But don't look too long at happiness for it will fade away and disappear.

Living happily is a fine art. To be happy, we have to search for knowledge, for a hetter understanding of human nature, and for a significant goal in life. Every man must make for himself a design to follow. If he succeeds in this task within the time limit set by nature, he may well consider himself happy.

Nick Boosalis '59

TRUE GREATNESS

Considering the expanse and intricate composition of the universe, man is insignifcant. Yet man, proud and vain, stands aloft and considers himself to be superior to all infinity. For he will study and fight until he dominates the stars and until he knows all the hidden secrets of the myriads of planets which must exist, just as he has clawed and slashed his way to dominion of his world.

This confidence and amhition must be derived from some source. Some driving power must be pushing man; some goal must he attracting him. This goal is man's search for his purpose in life and for the purpose of life's very existence.

Any person who contrihutes in man's search is great, but this is not true greatness. Mankind consists of individuals, and since individuals alone can accomplish little, only the uniting of many can bring about important results. Therefore, only man as an entire race can be truly great.

Thus it can he said that mankind as a whole in its constant search for the purpose of life can be considered truly great. Man must be the greatest force which exists, or man will die.

SNOWFALL

The night was still and calm. There was no moon, hut the star-filled heavens offered enough light on the earth's snow-covered face to create a prism-like effect. The snow lay as a soft, woolen blanket, guarding the earth from mishaps which might mar its beauty. The flakes were falling at a slow, steady pace. Winter himself was in complete command, stalking the heavy-laden streets, daring the other seasons to attempt to match his majestic greatness.

A lone house stood on a nearby hill. Its brightly lit windows were the only indication of life within. Then the front door opened, and a little boy clad in a loosely woven shirt walked out onto the porch. He stood for a moment, gazing about him trying to comprehend the magnificence of such a sight. Slowly descending the steps, he touched the tips of his toes to the snow, in the manner of a child, and shrank from its coldness. He shivered as he felt the first flakes of snow prick his face. His nose, which was already pink from the startling cold of the night, was growing numb. The night was forbidding; but in spite of these warnings, the hoy began to play. His feet sank into the freshly fallen snow. Laughter was heard as the wind frolicked with his thin shirt; but soon realizing that Nature was against him, he retraced the path to his warm home.

Once more the night was calm. The snow which had been trodden by the child was no longer white and smooth, but dingy, grey, and uneven from his footprints. Winter smiled upon the scene. He knew that in only a moment these damages would be hidden. The tired, old earth settled under its fleecy, white hlanket to rest for the night. Winter seemed pleased as he watched the snowfall.

Faith is——
The stem of a rose,
  The trunk of a tree;
The beauty of snows,
  The wings of a hee;

The light in the dark,
  The warmth of the sun;
The song of a lark,
  The duty, well done;

The purple of heather,
  The freshness of air;
The art of a feather,
  The meekness of care;

The strength of a sword,
  The glory of a steeple;
The love of our Lord,
  The love of His people.

Peggy Godwin '59

FAITH

When the weary day is through,
And there's nothing left to do,
Stop to give a little prayer;
You will always find Him there.

If your heart is filled with grief,
Trust in Him with firm belief,
For the time with Him you spend,
You will always find a friend.

Though the world may seem quite dark,
You possess a heav'nly spark,
Present it, then, unto His face,
And He will light it with His grace.

Rosalind Green '59

SATISFIED CAT

Skitter Scat, my elegant cat,
Proud and haughty, alone he sat,
His tail curled under
  and his paws thrust out.
He cared not that the world was about,
A self-esteemed gentleman
  without a doubt!

CREATIVE WRITING

HOPE

Hope, like a gleaming taper's light,
Adorns and cheers our way
And still, as darker grows the night,
Sends forth a brighter ray.

SUNSET

I wandered down across the bridge
And up the path along the ridge,
Where singing winds had swept away
The sullen heat of summer's day.

The crimson sun had come to rest
Upon the misty mountain crest,
Behind a brilliant sea of cloud,
Behind a velvet vapor shroud.

A silent Artist stroked His brush
And made the western heavens blush—
Vermilion, gold, and mingled hues,
A rippling waterfall of hues,

A fluctuating waterfall
Of shades that faded, one and all,
Into the vale behind the hill:
And all was dark, and all was still.

Jerry Moore '59

THE BROOK

A song upon my ear did play
As I wandered o'er the hill today—

A bubbling, gurgling, singing sound,
Like laughter of babe, his feet just found.

I pushed aside the brush and weed,
Beheld a brook, a charging steed,

Shadowy water, turbulent, wide,
Yet reflecting beauty on every side.

Playfully warbling, rushing on,
Its destination unknown.

O that men, like the hurrying rill,
With faith and beauty would this world fill!

THE FULL MOON

The moon is mysterious on her journeys by starlight. She shines all night long with some heavenly power guiding her beams earthwards. The moon moves across the sky and through the clouds with almost fairylike ease. Her radiant fingers reach downward to the heart of man—as if to give some meaning for his life.

The moon sees all; she knows all; she is all—for she is eternal. She has known man from his beginning. The early cave man saw her resplendent face through the clouds. (Only God knows what makes her face shine with that radiance which permeates the whole).

Ever present, night after night, she sends her beauty to the earth; but, then, on some precious nights, she shines in full glory, clothed in regal robes of twinkling starlight—as if to be a crown for all nature's love. She is the full moon.

Randy Shackelford '59

FULL MOON

The full moon illuminated the beauties of the night. Striking first the tallest treetops, its lucid beams created a glittery halo to encircle the leafy branches. Descending the trees, the beams of the full moon diminishd in the more abundant shade. Unobstructed roofs glared proudly into the night, reflecting the light of the penetrating beams. Shiny cars twinkled as stars, and the silent streets gleamed as if rays of gold covered their surfaces. Flowers, resting in the peace and radiance of the night, winked in appreciation to the moon before nodding good night to the rest of the world. Animals, blessed by the constant glow of moonbeams, scampered excitedly in the light, gathering food and playing happily. The world looked up with respect and gratitude to the full moon.

FREEDOM

Blessings many for Americans free
Are bestowed on all indiscriminately.
Freedom from Fear is a freedom indeed,
Available to all men—race, color, or creed.
Freedom to Worship as one may choose—
With a freedom like this, what can one lose?
Freedom to Speak what is on one's mind,
And the door is open to all mankind.
Freedom from Want has great meaning for me,
For it's denied our brothers far o'er the sea.
Freedom of Press in our vast domain,
Is another car on this Freedom Train.
Let each be thankful for his heritage great,
And strive to be worthy men of state.

Charles Brown '59

CAREFREE WORLD

Where is a World
That in it lies
Peace of mind?
Closed eyes
Upon the troubles of the day?
Minds guided into sleep's calm way?

Where is a world,
Where may be found
Quiet of rest,
Yet abound
The lilting mirth and sprightly glee
Expressed by children in a playful spree?

Only music can do this well,
Or in us stir a magic spell!

Connor Holland '59

RENASCENCE

When just budding, the Princess longs to boast a real blossom to all the world. Soon, much to her delight, she grows into a blushing pink blossom warmed by the spring sun. Scented breezes of summer whisper and coo in her delicate ear best wishes for a long reign as Majesty of Softness. She nods and bobs and, with the twitter of a petal, gives them a smile. Soft as a new cloud blown together by the wind, more delicate than the white fuzz of a fall dandelion, the rose is truly a queen. How majestic she reigns as queen of all in Flower Land!

Then the end of summer comes. Each day a petal, now old and wrinkled, dies, only to be whisked away by innocent breezes. Thus the Queen loses her beauty, and with each gust, sheds a tear, which falls to its resting place for the coming season.

Finally, during a black autum night, a death-laden frost covers the earth. All is gone. Now only her soul exists in a new home beneath the ground. There, hidden from us, visible only to God, she rests and remembers days that are past, while patiently waiting for a new life—Spring's Reawakening.

Ann Black '59

A DAISY

A daisy is summer's ballerina dancing in the wind. A daisy is a polka-dot on the pasture blanket. A daisy is a small perfume factory with the windows open. A daisy is a shade tree for an ant. A daisy is a bed for a bee. Daisies are fences for fairy rings. Daisies are drops of beauty from the pores of nature. Daisies are the lace on ditches. Daisies are chains for fair necks.

A daisy is the signal for the winter-weary farmer to plow his brown fields. A daisy is the last piece of summer's puzzle falling neatly into place in the farm animals' pattern of life. To the farmer's wife standing on the porch, a daisy is a cloud of white swirled around the fence posts. A daisy is country beauty to the city family speeding down the road.

Daisies are all these things and more. Each little white flower-face nodding at heaven is announcing in its own eloquent way that nature's warm ear is once more laid over the earth. A daisy is the symbol of summer.

History of the Scottish Dancers

The Highland Flingers were formed in 1939 to take part in Fayetteville's Sesqui-Centennial Celebration. This group never organized as a club but was often called on to dance.

In 1942 the Scottish Dancers were organized at Fayetteville High School to go with the band to the National Folk Festival in Washington. The dancers traveled to Washington that year and in the next few years attended festivals in Philadelphia, Cleveland, and St. Louis. They owed their excellent training to Mrs. John H. Culbreth, who generously gave of her time to the coaching of students who were interested in keeping alive the dances that the Highland Scots had brought with them to this community in the 1700's.

The club is perhaps better known throughout North Carolina now than ever before. Last summer several members attended the Grandfather Mountain Highland Games and came home with medals, and this year they hope to win more.

Under the direction of Miss Sally Sutherland of Charlotte the dancers have learned the Highland Fling, Sword Dance, Lilt, and soon hope to learn the Seann Truibhas and Flora MacDonald's Fancy.

Mrs. Hubert Black, a native of Edinburgh, Scotland, has been teaching the group Scottish country dances. All the dancers enjoy doing a Foursome Reel, the Flowers of Edinburgh, and an Eightsome Reel.

The Fayetteville Club has long been noted for the colorful kilts in different clan tartans that each dancer wears. This year, for the first time, all members have Arisaidhs, too. Any girl entering competition in Scotland must wear the Arisaidh and it will soon be the official costume here. The kilt is really the men's costume but is worn often by girls and is better known than the Arisaidh.

The Club now frequently receive invitations to perform for special programs. Here in Faytteville they appear in parades, before various clubs, and dance at the Fayetteville High School Homecoming Game. Each year they compete at the North Carolina State Fair and this year won second prize in the Novelty Division.

The group danced for the North Carolina Folklore Society meeting in Raleigh in December, after which they danced at the Governor's Mansion. They were introduced to Governor and Mrs. Hodges, to former President Harry Truman and Mrs. Truman, and to many other outstanding people.

Fayetteville High School, in fact the whole Fayetteville community, is proud of the Scottish Dancers and is happy to be represented throughout North Carolina by such a talented and energetic group.

Your right to know a Constitutional Guarantee is solidly based on a Militantly Free Press.

Fulfillment of this principle, guaranteed by our Constitution is the mission of the Free Press of America, as represented by The Fayetteville Observer. Edited by your neighbors, it seeks out what you must know about what is going on in your community, the nation, and the world.

Newspaper advertising also plays its important role in this broad picture, bringing you offerings in an open competitive market so that you may choose freely what you will buy and from whom.
